More materials coming to your recycling in October!

Starting October 1, 2026, you'll be able to recycle more materials in your recycling program.

Soon you will be able to recycle materials like glass containers, foam packaging, aerosol containers and more flexible and rigid plastic packaging right at your curb or at your local depot.

More details will be provided in July! In the meantime, keep doing what you are doing. There are no changes to your recycling program until October 1, 2026.

The finishing touches for your garden

If you want a plant that comes back every year with minimal maintenance, then you want a perennial. These plants can be vining, upright or even ground cover, but their defining characteristic is to die back to the ground in the winter and come back in the spring. Often the only work perennials require is to cut back spent flowers and remove the above ground growth just before freezing.

The use of perennials can define the style of garden you are going for. A cottage garden is achieved by using a wide variety of perennials and planting them tightly to get a carefree but beautiful feeling. A modern garden will place just a few varieties of perennials in an orderly fashion, with an emphasis on space and mindfulness.

A well rounded landscape will include multiple shapes of perennial plants, from groundcover to upright and don't forget the grasses! Grass can be the fastest most cost effective way to achieve structure and privacy.

As the lowest level of the canopy, perennials are highly sensitive to sun or shade, dry or wet conditions. Their needs cannot bend to what we want, so choosing the right plant for the right spot from the beginning is crucial.

We all have our favorites! I like to only spend money once, so I go with very hardy plants.

I adore Bergenia (Elephant Ears) for shady locations, Salvia with their wide range of colours for sun, Russian Sage to bring in the bees and 'Karl Foerster' Feather Reed grass for privacy. Ultimately choose something that makes you happy every time you look at it!
